The screenshot shows a forum page from phpBB titled "helico.com Forums". At the top, there is a navigation bar with "Quick links", "Donate", and "ACP". Below this is a breadcrumb trail: "Board index > Clinical: Patient Oriented Discussions > Diseases and symptoms". An announcement banner states: "A new anti-spam extension has been installed in this forum. If you have problem registering or login the forum, please do not hesitate to email the admin. Contact Admin Click Here." The main thread is titled "My story of desperation" by user "helicopter" and is marked as "Unanswered". A red arrow points to the "Post Reply" button. The thread contains two posts. The first post, by "helicopter" on Feb 25, 2017, describes a personal experience with depression, mentioning feelings of isolation, difficulty sleeping, and a sense of hopelessness. The second post, by "helico_anast" on Feb 25, 2017, offers support and advice, suggesting that the user's feelings are a result of a bad hormone and that the situation will improve over time. The forum interface includes standard phpBB features like search, user avatars, and post navigation.
